

we aren't kids anymore.

If you're actually taking the time to read the digital booklet of this album, then congrats: you're the best and I love you.

This collection of songs was written during a time when I felt stuck between huge chapters of growth in my young adult life. I took stock of my artist journey, going all the way back to childhood - acknowledging the struggles I've faced and my fears about the future - and started to write about it. The more I wrote, the more certain I felt that these stories were meant to be shared. My hope is that these songs make my fellow artists feel seen, and help anyone who loves an artist understand our journey a little better. Above all else, I hope these songs connect us as humans.

A close-up photograph of a man with a beard, wearing a dark cap and large headphones. He is looking down and holding a vintage-style microphone in his right hand. The lighting is warm and focused on his face, with a bright light source visible in the upper left corner, creating a soft glow. The background is dark and out of focus.

thanks

To my dedicated manager and friend, Erica Rotstein, for always believing in me. My musical right hand man, Mr. Justin Goldner: you did such beautiful work on this album. To Ian Kagey for helming the board and giving us such tasty mixes. To Lilli Cooper, Colton Ryan, Bonnie Milligan, Raymond Lee, and Nicholas Christopher: I'm blown away by all of you. To Ilana Ransom Toeplitz for making these stories come to life! To Sean Flahaven and Concord Theatricals for giving this project reach. To Bruce Bronstein, Colin Ruffer, Andrew Griffin, and the entire cast and crew of our Christopher Newport University workshop for helping us create something new! To Keith White, Louis Sacco, Jennifer Jancuska and The BringAbout, Melissa Rose Hirsch, Michael Coale Grey, April Lavallo, Sara Skolnick, and Marc Acito for helping with the early stages of development. To Anna Ty Bergman and Alex Goyco for capturing the process. To Bobbie Theodore and Jana Shea for believing in the work we're doing. And of course to Mom, Dad, Danny, Kasie, Chloe, Lexie, Gabe and Judah: thank you for supporting me and being the inspiration for much of this music. I love you. Thank you, all of you, from the bottom of my heart.
